National City Bank Supports Peak Community Services Foundation

JULY 2007

The Peak Community Services Foundation recently received a check from National City. National City is proud to be actively involved in the communities in which it operates; this is just one of many community services supported by the institution. These funds will be used to provide services to individuals with developmental disabilities who remain on waiting lists for services.

In Indiana, there are 15,500 individuals on waiting lists for services. Many of these individuals have been on a list for 10 years or longer. The newly formed Foundation will provide services to as many of those individuals as possible, as long as they reside in Cass or Pulaski County. Nearly 200 of the 15,500 live in these two counties.
